Text of the Praesidium	Proposed Amendments
Article 2: The Union's values The Union is founded on the values of respect for human dignity, liberty, democracy, the rule of law and respect for human rights, values which are common to the Member States. Its aim is a society at peace, through the practice of tolerance, justice and solidarity.	Article 2: The Union's values The Union is founded on the values of respect for human dignity, liberty, democracy, the rule of law, and respect for human rights, tolerance, justice and solidarity , values which are common to the Member States. Its aim is a society at peace, through the practice of tolerance, justice and solidarity.
Explanation: 1. The wording “its aim is...” seems inappropriate as it suggests objectives and not values. 2. Although not proposed in this Article, a reference to the religious heritage should be mentioned in the Preamble.
